4. We propose to add an additional requirement in relation to pension schemes setting out disclosure requirements for defined benefit schemes. Do you agree with our proposal to add this in section 13?

Yes ☐ No ☒

Do you have any comments on section 13 of the draft Determination?

The need for this change is unclear.

Neither the revisions to FRS 102 nor the draft SORP make reference to changes in the disclosure requirements for defined benefit pension schemes.

Paragraph 13.1 in the draft would add nothing to the existing position as the true and fair view override would still be applicable. Organisations that consider the information provided by a pension administrator to fall short of full defined benefit accounting per FRS 102 could and should use the true and fair view override to the “valuation basis”.

For example, in the case of the Scottish Housing Associations’ Pension Scheme (SHAPS) many organisations use the “defined benefit accounting information” provided by the pensions administrator (TPT) to provide accounting disclosures on a “valuation basis” within their financial statements. While this information may provide a reasonable estimate of liabilities on an individual employer basis, it does not reflect actual experience with respect to individual employer contributions, individual employer investment returns and individual employer cash flows. Scheme contributions and disbursements are co-mingled for investment purposes and as such cannot be attributed to or ring-fenced to an individual employer. Assets are apportioned on a share of liabilities basis. The information generated is therefore a hybrid that falls short of full defined benefit accounting as recognised by FRS 102. It may therefore be considered that accounting for the pension scheme on a “valuation basis” in these circumstances provides a distorted view of the position to a reader of the financial statements.

Paragraph 13.2 does not acknowledge that in exceptional circumstances FRS 102 does allow a pension scheme asset to be recognised. As such, and in those exceptional circumstances, implementation in accordance with this paragraph may be subject to challenge by the Financial Reporting Council.
